To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this on behalf of author and speaker. Dr. Tunishai Ford.

My company as part of its mission provides seminars designed to enhance communication between people on every level of human interaction. Once such seminar was held April 8, 2006 at the University of Michigan, Dearborn entitled "Can We Talk: A Relationship Enhancement Seminar." To say the very least, she was well received. Among other speakers she was the favorite of many of the seminar participants.

She was energetic, relevant and delivered on the content that was essential to what we charged her to do.

If you're looking for a fresh voice and perspective to motivate and inspire your team, I recommend Dr. Tunishai Ford.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Bob Ivory, Jr." The signature is fluid and cursive, with the first name "Bob" being particularly prominent.

DR. TUNISHAI FORD

AUTHOR, MOTIVATIONAL SPEAKER & ORDAINED EVANGELIST

Tunishai Ford is a multi-gifted International Motivational speaker, Life coach, Teacher, Preacher, Licensed Ordained Evangelist, Published Poet and Author. In addition to her many titles she has been called courageous, an overcomer and a future “World Changer”. Her life challenges and triumphs has motivated her to share with others a hope of overcoming present circumstances through acquiring realistic goals and pursuing them through the spiritual and practical teachings of God’s word. Ms. Ford’s commitment to teaching has given her 16 years of experience working with women and youth.

Tunishai Ford is also the author of a book entitled, “I Miss the Hugs, but not the Hurts”. This is her first self-published book. It is the first of many, which is a provocative saga and teaching tool that encourages healing and restoration from toxic and co-dependent relationships. It illustrates how to avoid falling into self-destructive behavior in relationships, develop self-love, have acceptance for yourself and ultimately being ready for your soul mate.

Tunishai’s greatest achievement and commission, is to share her victory story of triumph over Hodgkin’s disease (cancer of the lymphatic system) which when she was diagnosed, she was in the fourth and last stage of the illness. “The Lord gave me a message when I was first diagnosed with cancer.” He said, “This Is a Comma in Your Life, Not a Period”. She was miraculously healed from the cursed deadly/fatal affliction of cancer. As you take this journey with her through her life changing ordeal, she tells about her remarkable reprieve from a death sentence and gives the reader hope and faith to overcome their life challenges in her second book, which is entitled the same. The title as well as the content is definitely captivating.

Tunishai Ford presently holds an honorary doctorate in divinity from Destiny Christian University in Winter Haven, Florida, a MA in Pastoral Ministries from Ashland Theological Seminary. She also completed two years of Ministers Training School at Jubilee Christian Center under the leadership of Pastor Ellis Smith. In addition to her ministerial training, Ms. Ford has a BA degree in Psychology from the University of Detroit as well as a counseling certificate for crisis intervention counseling from William Tyndale College. She graduated with honors from St. Mary’s of Redford High School. Her professional training includes workshops from R.E.S.A. Training Institute for the Detroit Board of Education including such topics as different learning styles and teaching Civic Awareness.

I Miss the Hugs, But Not the Hurts

— R E V I S E D E D I T I O N —

I Miss the Hugs, But Not the Hurts is the first book written by Tunishai Ford that shares with women the many valuable lessons she learned from past relationships and experiences. One of the greatest mistakes made during her lifetime was being attracted to the wrong men. The primary cause of this inclination was her fear and reservations of being alone. This overwhelming fear has driven millions of single women to the very brink of disaster.

I Miss the Hugs, But Not the Hurts will encourage you to love yourself, respect yourself and accept yourself. It will challenge you to set higher goals and enhance your self-esteem. In order to do that you must have the desire to create a positive image of yourself and above all, believe in your self-worth. The most valuable benefit that this book has to offer is the enlightenment and causes behind the crisis thousands of women across the world face. Therefore, the advice contained within this book can save your career, your sanity and most importantly, your very life.

Dr. Tunishai A. Ford is an enthusiastic inspirational speaker, empowerment trainer, and image consultant. Dr. Ford is the founder of Your Own Uniqueness, Inc., a self-improvement business/ministry for women and youth. She holds a B.A. in Psychology from the University of Detroit Mercy, a M.A. degree in Theology from Ashland Theological Seminary and a D.Div. from Destiny University. Tunishai is also an ordained and licensed minister.

Her strong convictions and life experiences have given her the desire to reach out and help the emotionally and spiritually oppressed that want to develop and become healthy emotional individuals. I Miss the Hugs, But Not the Hurts was inspired by such an experience.
